FIPI AWARDS MOTIVATE OIL AND GAS SECTOR TO ACHIEVE EXCELLENCE IN PERFORMANCE: SECRETARY, MINISTRY OF PETROLEUM & NATURAL GAS

INDUSTRY LAUDED THE FORMATION OF FIPI AS A PATHBREAKING INDUSTRY LED REFORM TO COME FORTH AS ONE VOICE FOR THE INDUSTRY

Federation of Indian Petroleum Industry (FIPI) organized its FIPI Oil & Gas Award 2016 ceremony on 8th August 2017. FIPI Awards honour excellence in performance in Oil & Gas industry in India in various domains. This maiden edition of awards of FIPI got overwhelming response with over 90 entries received in all 15 award categories. Following the scrutiny and guidelines laid by the top notch leaders in the Jury, the awards were given in 10 categories. The winners of the 2016 edition were felicitated by Shri K. D. Tripathi, Secretary, Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas (MoP&NG) in New Delhi.

While addressing the august audience, Secretary, MoP&NG mentioned that India, unlike the global headlines that is marred with uncertainty, has consistently managed to impress the world economy with robust growth in the past three years. In the Indian context, one of the indicators and backbone of a country's growth is its consumption of petroleum products and the health of its Oil and Gas Sector in India.

"Currently, India is the fastest growing large economy in the world. Along with the growing economy, the demand for energy has also risen over the past few years, resulting in increased dependency on oil & gas imports. It is expected to increase even further in the future. The government aims to reduce energy import dependency by 10%. This can be done by tapping the hydrocarbon resource available and increasing the oil and gas production. In this direction government is determined to take all possible measures and push for reforms in this sector".

OIL AND GAS SECTOR TO WITNESS MORE REFORMS

quest, he lauded the formation of FIPI as a path-breaking industry led reform to come forth as one voice for the industry. Speaking as the guest of honour at the First FIPI Awards for achievements in 2016, Secretary, MoP&NG said that this event has become an eagerly awaited occasion to celebrate and recognise the achievements of the Oil and Gas industry in India. "The FIPI awards (erstwhile PetroFed awards) motivate Oil and Gas sector to excel in the performance".

Shri D. K. Sarraf, Chairman, FIPI & CMD, ONGC welcomed the distinguished guests and shared the vision and mission of FIPI. He highlighted that in a short period, FIPI organized a number of events related to various sectors of Oil & Gas Industry and champion its concern with other stakeholders. He said that, under FIPI banner, the stake holders of this industry will be benefited from the opportunities and find solutions to industry.

Dr. R.K. Malhotra, Director General, FIPI briefed about the FIPI Awards Scheme. While congratulating the award winners, he also expressed his gratitude towards the FIPI Awards Jury and committee members for spending their valuable time for their recommendations and selection of the winners.

Guest speakers

ASHISH BHANDARI, CEO, SOUTH ASIA, BAKER HUGHES, A GE COMPANY

Time has come for the Oil and Gas Sector to learn from the sweeping changes digital disruptions has made to several industries like automobiles. In fact, industry stalwarts should look at advantages of connecting relevant data into a hand held cloud based platform that through use of artificial intelligence, or an enabled digital assistant could help create better insights, savings and optimisation of plant performance and reap several other benefits.

HANS-PAUL BURKNER, GLOBAL CHAIRMAN, BCG

The incremental growth opportunities that Indian Oil and Gas sector will witness by 2030 to present estimates will be in range of massive $2.5 trillion to $5 trillion depending on the cost of crude oil. Although, the crude oil prices are likely to be under pressure in foreseeable future, stakeholders in the Indian Oil and Gas sector will have to curate a new mix of portfolio that will also a substantial inclination towards the renewables.
